There were no shortages of heros, princesses, witches, and other bedizened beings at the Plaza. The annual parade is sponsored by the Xi Gamma Pi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Some cowgirls attended the costume parade with cameras instead of lassos.

Isabelle Howard led a group of kids on the cakewalk at the public school Halloween carnival on Wednesday, October 30. Many students showed up to play games and eat sweet treats.

The sumo wrestler was a big hit at the annual Halloween parade of costumes in the Plaza.

Kids, parents, and treaters enjoyed the Trunk or Treat, a family activity sponsored by the Ajo Pastors' Association on Halloween in the Ajo Federated Church's parking lot.

The annual Senior Nutrition Halloween Costume Party was held Thursday, October 31, at the community center in Walker Park. Shown here are site manager Marina Padres, third place winner Marie Cain as a Russian bride, second place winner Norma Walker as Dracula, first place winner Johnny Canez in a charro outfit, and site council president Berna Castillo. The winners were awarded gift certificates. Phil Cabello and Ron Whitley entertained with Karaoke. Some of the seniors joined in the fun and sang their favorite songs. Drug sweep cases from September are now in pre-trial stage

The status of the twelve Ajo residents arrested in a drug sweep on September 10 appeared in limbo for nearly two months after all charges were dismissed without prejudice, reportedly to wait for the results of lab tests on the seized drugs. Ten of the cases involved narcotics such as meth and heroin – classified as dangerous drugs by the legal system - with two cases involving prescription drug violations.

Pima County Attorney's Office spokesperson Stephanie Coronado recently informed the Ajo Copper News that Christopher Nelson took a plea last week to possession of meth for sale, and has a sentencing scheduled for December 6. She said the remaining eleven have case management conferences scheduled for November 26 in a number of different divisions.

Case management conferences, according to Coronado, take place after arraignment - where a defendant is formally charged with a crime – but before a possible trial. She said often a plea is reached during these conferences. The process begins with an exchange of information between the prosecution and the defense regarding each case, known as disclosure.

Following this the attorneys for both sides build their cases for a possible trial. Police reports are reviewed, witnesses interviewed, and evidence examined, and any additional investigation is performed. Hearings regarding the admissibility or suppression of evidence may take place at this time.

In the phase known as non-trial disposition, defendants may plead guilty or no contest to the original charges or to different charges, and included may be various con-

Local artists Joyce Chaney and Sally Banks looked over examples of doodle art before Chaney's presentation at the opening reception of the November art exhibit called Doodling, now on display in the library in the Plaza. The duo held a copy of a 1922 doodle art piece by Paul Klee, which hangs in the Museum of Modern Art in New York City. On the library wall is a Chaney original called Poseidon's Gift, featuring the mythological Greek horse created by waves of the sea

Chaney describes doodling as the art of drawing for the pure joy of it, with no thought to using proper artistic principles. Participants at the presentation were treated to a doodling demonstration with audience participation.

Auditions for one-act plays are November 6

The Ajo Community Players will hold auditions for parts in a series of one-act plays on Wednesday, November 6, beginning at 7 p.m. in the Curley School library, located on the second floor directly above the front entrance. Needed are males and females of all ages to play the parts of characters in four plays, including a number of realistic-looking zombies.

The plays, scheduled for a weekend in mid-January, involve a cannabis-growing widow who dates an ex-cop, flaring tempers as cotton shirts shrink, the continuing adventures of hotel detective Dick Piston, and zombies attending the theater during a zombie apocalypse.

Along with actors, individuals are needed to build sets, paint signs, serve as stagehands, and as emcees for shows.

New xeriscaping graces the perimeter of the LDS Church, 801 Cedar Street, with church First Councilor Ben Blackburn, Bishop Ryan Judd, Maricopa Stake President Malin Lewis, and Second Councilor Cody Harwood taking a moment to admire the look.

Primary reasons for the change from the original landscape of tall fan palms, silk oaks, and bottle trees surrounded by turf were to conserve water and to keep moisture and roots from damaging the building foundation. The local church, dedicated in 1961, celebrated its 50th anniversary two years ago and deterioration to parts of the foundation were becoming apparent, noted Lewis. He added that the tall palm trees were expensive to prune and involved a liability issue with falling tree debris and the potential for a tree to fall on the church roof.

The new look includes an expanse of salmon-colored decorative rock with a sprinkling of land-scape boulders around the church along with low-water-use plants such as gold lantana, dwarf bottlebrush, bougainvillea, Mediterranean fan and sago palms, rosemary, boxwood, pyracantha, pittosporum, red bird of paradise, desert spoon, red yucca, yaupon holly, cenizo, Indian haw-thorn, and coral fountain spaced for a non-cluttered appearance at plant maturity. The turf beyond will continue to be heat-loving hybrid Bermuda grass in summer over-seeded by rye in winter. Currently the local bird population is making it challenging to establish a winter lawn, explained the church officials. Several mature trees remain and have been supplemented by new specimens of pistachio, pear, and elm. The work was done by a facilities management group based in Casa Grande that works with the Salt Lake office and with local authorities. Lewis said the management group keeps an eye on numerous facilities and offers suggestions for improvement, such as a planned resurfacing of the church parking lot in 2014.

Second Saturday fun on November 9

The Second Saturday community event for this month will be on November 9 in the Plaza and elsewhere.

A farmers' market is scheduled for 9 to 11 a.m. Artists will be on hand from 9 a.m. to noon.

A guided tour of the Plaza and Curley School is set for 10 a.m. Participants are asked to meet at the Plaza flagpole.

From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. the clay studio in the manual arts building on the Curley campus will be open to the public.

An art workshop with artist Marla Ettenberg will take place from 2 to 4 p.m. in the foyer next to Repeat Performance in the Plaza. Participants will use artist's brushes and acrylic painting techniques to transform pre-baked dough animal ornaments into colorful beasts.

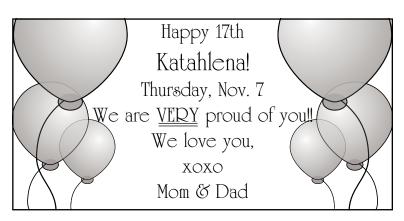

There will be a Childs Mountain tour leaving from the Cabeza Prieta National Wildlife Refuge visitor at 3:30 p.m. Reservations are required by Friday, November 8, at noon. Call 387-6483.

Second Saturday events have fun for all ages, said ISDA organizers. For more details, call ISDA at 387-3570.

Three veterans to be honored November 24

Three local veterans, Frankie Parra, B.J. Clements, and Jack Garchow, will be honored by veterans organizations of Ajo. The American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars will present the trio with plaques honoring their unselfish service, according to organizer Bryan Blow.

The event, which will be held at 2 p.m. on November 24 at the VFW Post, will also feature a flag ceremony, music by Karen Gonzales, and a potluck.

Karen Sucharski and Mike Henrichs displayed items that were made with only 25 pounds of clay. They say the Curley School Clay Studio wants to help Ajoites make their holiday gifts

"We know money is tight," said Karen Sucharski, studio manager. "We can show people how to make a variety of quality gifts for little money."

"Even if they don't have any experience," Mike Henrichs, day manager, chimed in.

Henrichs and Sucharski took over the clay studio in August. They have been getting the word out that the clay department is open for the community to use. They have also been offering introductory classes in hand building forms and how to throw on the pottery wheel.

"We've had a really fun birthday party and lots of new students," Henrichs said. "We also offer team building, girl's and guy's night out, date night or, we've had whole families come in and just have fun."

The studio is run on a donation basis to cover operating costs and maintain equipment. Clay, glazes and kiln firings to finish pieces have set charges. There are a variety of tools and equipment for people to use.

"All it takes is imagination," Sucharski said. "And if you have experience, just pay for supplies and firings. If not, Mike is an excellent, patient, knowledgeable teacher."

Sucharski is the co-founder and owner of LunarStar Pottery and has been making her living from pottery for the past 14 years. Henrichs has a culinary arts degree and took pottery as an elective in college. He fell in love with it and joined LunarStar as a partner nearly 2 years ago.

The Clay Studio is open Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 a.m. to noon and from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. It is open Wednesday mornings from 9 a.m. to noon. It is also open for Second Saturday in Ajo for tours, working independently and sales from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Insurance & beasts are topics at library

Upcoming library activities include a visit from the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum, and a health insurance marketplace followed by some laughing.

On Thursday, November 7, at 10 a.m., The Arizona Sonora-Desert Museum will present animals of the night from bats to kangaroo rats.

On Monday, November 11, the library will be closed in observance of Veterans Day.

On Tuesday, November 12, at 10:30 a.m., America Perez will be available to discuss basics and options in applying for health insurance coverage via the new health insurance marketplace. After the health insurance marketplace discussion, Jane Canon, RN and certified laughter yoga leader, will lighten the mood and do some de-stressing with participants. The program is a partnership between Desert Senita Community Health Clinic and Salazar-Ajo Library.

A 1946 Chevy 3100-series half-ton pickup belonging to Kord Klinefelter drew a lot of attention at a middle school car wash last Saturday at Mike Holt's Ajo Shell & Car Wash. Supervised by AUSD middle school advisor and English teacher Shanna Sellers, seventh- and eighth-grade students Cora Spieth, Alena Celeya, Miranda Neira, Ashley Blount, Rosa Serventi, and Nikki Sanora swarmed over the truck's polished finish with towels to leave a spotless shine.

A total of 23 students participated in the event, raising funds for an end-of-school-year field trip - possibly a return to the Sunsplash Waterpark in Phoenix, noted Sellers. She said funds will also go toward a middle school-sponsored ice cream social and an undetermined activity based on remaining funds and a middle school council vote. Can coozie sales are an additional means of raising funds, and donation checks may be sent to Ajo Unified School District with "Middle school student council" written on the memo line.

"We're excited about this," said Sellers. "When I first took over the fundraiser program the middle school actually owed money. Last year we raised an impressive $750 and I'm sure we will exceed that this year with the wonderful community support!"

CofC members heard about development

The speaker at the October 29 meeting of the Ajo District Chamber of Commerce was Casey Rooney, economic development director for the City of Cottonwood.

Rooney spoke about ideas and plans that officials in Cottonwood are pursuing to promote tourism and business development, noting he felt it is important that local CofCs focus on what a community is good at, something unique a community may have to offer, such as a historical slant, mining, art, or an attraction as a retirement area. For instance, he said, in Cottonwood the art of wine tasting is being promoted because the region is conducive to grape growing. Rooney suggested Ajo promote its quality of life as a safe place to live with lots of friendly people.

The Rock Church is the local name for the First Assembly of God Church in Ajo.

By M. William Mekelburg

It might seem logical that taking over the maintenance contract of a new property by a landscaper or property manager would be considered a good thing. Hidden dangers lurk, however, and they can bite with little warning.

The most serious hidden hazard has to do with tree decline. Trees are generally the focal points of a landscape and carry the highest value, and therefore the most consequence when things go bad. (Large cacti may also be included in this.)

The problem with tree decline is it can take many years, even decades, to finally become obvious. For the unwary who don't recognize early signs of it, tree decline can be a ticking time bomb waiting to make a new caretaker look incompetent.

In a nutshell, trees that are not actively growing, that is, growing new large structural branches on a regular basis, are technically in decline. In good health, a citrus tree in a residential setting will actively grow for roughly 50 years and spend another 10 years in decline, with only the last 2 or 3 years of that showing obvious signs such as branch die-back. In other words, the majority of the decline stage is hardly apparent; it just looks like the tree is no longer getting any bigger.

Too often, "good health" was never achieved by a landscape tree. The reasons for premature decline are myriad, but one of the most common culprits takes place at planting time: the root flare is planted too deep. When this happens, a tree, say a citrus, will actively grow for 3, 5, or maybe 10 years or more, depending on flare depth, and just stop growing, merely putting new leaves on for another 5 to 10 years before an early demise. Improper watering, root competition from the neighbor's yard, and internode pruning (topping) are other common culprits.

Watch out for yards with small trees with hefty trunks, which often indicates they have not been actively growing for some time, and watch for yards with one or two large trees along with much smaller ones, which may indicate premature tree decline in the smaller specimens.

There are really only two options when dealing with decline: cut out the dead parts of branch die-back to help the tree's appearance until its demise, or remove the tree and start over. It may be argued that education to avoid the scenarios that cause early decline in the first place is really the best option.

GOLF Course

By Greg Burton

Monday evening at the Ajo Community Golf Course, six players were out for the Skins game. George Steckle was in great form as he won three skins on #3, #4 & #9. Bill Conley also got one on #1. The rest of us were just along for the ride and the good laughs in the clubhouse following.

Wednesday night Couples play, was dominated by Tony & Linda McGarry as they shot a sizzling 28.4 followed by Mike & Patty Taylor at 30.6 and Frank Milene & Carol Peek also at 30.6.

Friday night at the Pro Am, team captain Hector Canez, along with his father Johnny Canez, Bud Turner, and Harley Murray won first place. (Johnny Canez was the 1989 Ajo Country Club Men's Champion so it was good to see he's still got it! I saw him chip one in for the team on hole #1.) Dick Gates and his team of Joe Gonzales, Frank Milene & Linda McGarry took second place.

The overseeding is done so we're just waiting for the new seed on the greens to take off. If you haven't tried us you're missing out.

RAIDER THE WEEK

The final fall Raider of the Week is Danesi Yamilex Perez. Yami is a senior who plays volleyball, basketball, and softball. Her motivation is straightforward. "It helps me stay in shape, I'm involved in something fun, and it's great to be part of a team." She finds volleyball particularly challenging, "because it changes so fast." In trying to remember a great moment, Perez thought of the match against Gila Bend. "I played my heart out in that game." She's found her confidence improved this year and isn't particularly nervous before a match.

Beyond sports Perez is in the National Honor Society and class governance. In prior years she had been in the Drama Club and Junior State of America (JSA) but those activities now lack faculty sponsors thus aren't happening. She found JSA to be particularly compelling.

Perez's heroes are her mother and Christa McAuliffe. "I've read everything about Christa and she proved to me that women can do anything!" Her own beliefs reflect this, "Don't be afraid to try anything. Failure is only if you don't learn."

Perez intends to study psychology and human behavior in college then go to law school. Her mother is Dalia Pazos.

Lady Raiders go out winners

By Robert Sorrels Ajo 3, ASDB 1

Senior night, cancer awareness, and a slim chance of playoffs were all riding on the Ladies' last volleyball game. Arizona School for the Deaf and Blind was also in pink and battling to advance. The two teams played all out.

Ajo opened strong beating the Sentinels 25-16 on good service and timely kills. With the Raiders down 15-5 Shanoa Noriega's 15-point run put them well into the lead. Noriega finished the match with 5 aces, 1 error on 27 attempts. Defense and passing were good throughout. In the second game, the Ladies' service went erratic and never recovered. ASDB quickly took advantage of Ajo errors winning 25-16. Mariah Gilmartin was the only Raider able to get a point on service.

At the changeover, coach Ticha Mancilla had words for her team, and they woke up. ASDB took a slim lead, but was reeled back in by good defense. The teams were neck and neck till the Raiders broke to 20-14. ASDB refused to go away as Ajo had to fight pointby-point to win 25-19.

The fourth game was intense. Ajo jumped to a 10-2 lead, but the ASDB captain put them up 12-10. Noriega and Erika Salcido both served well pushing Ajo to 19-16. From there it was again a back and forth struggle till Hannah Lynn served to win the game and match,

Ajo ended at 9-7. This was one of their better recent teams. It improved as the season went on and, most important, stayed cohesive. "It's not that we don't have differences," noted one senior. "It's that we keep it off the court." Ajo loses five seniors, the heart of their starting line-up. Also assistant coach Bresy Nunez is leaving to start a family. She will be missed. The JV played well, so next year has promise.

The Raiders can handle the lower half of their section. They now need to beat the upper half. To do so three things must happen: (1) Improve service. Arguably the Ladies lost at least two matches to service failure. (2) Be in better control of the attack. Their kill-error ratio was often negative. Finally, (3) learn to not let good teams "get inside their heads". They have to play their game no matter what.
