Ajo voter turnout beat state

Voter turnout in Pima County for last week's general election was a respectable 71.62%, and the overall percentage of votes cast by registered voters in Ajo – Precinct 001 – was a close match at 69.02%, beating the state turnout of 64.14%. Of the 1488 registered voters in Ajo, 1027 cast their ballots, as of Monday's most recent update from Pima County Elections.

President Barack Obama received 511 votes, or 50.3% while his Republican challenger Mitt Romney received 473 votes, 46.56%.

Statewide, Republican candidate Jeff Flake won the US Senate seat vacated by Senator Jon Kyl. Ajo voters gave challenger Richard Carmona 525 votes, compared to Flake's 411.

Re-elected US Representative Raul Grijalva received 508 of Ajo's votes, with 427 voters choosing his challenger, Gabriela Saucedo Mercer.

District 3 Supervisor Sharon Bronson was handily re-elected county-wide, and with nearly 61% of Ajo's vote. Opponent Tanner Bell received slightly more than 39%.

If the majority of Ajo voters had had their way, the Democrat trio of Marcia Busching, Sandra Kennedy, and Paul Newman would have been chosen as state Corporation Commission members. Voters across the state, however, chose Republicans Susan Bitter Smith, Robert Burns, and Bob Stump.

County Attorney Barbara LaWall received 97.35% of the county's vote, and just under 98% of Ajo's vote. Incumbent Sheriff Clarence Dupnik had similar support in his successful bid with 50.39% of the county's vote, and 53.85% in Ajo.

County Recorder F. Ann Rodriguez, a Democrat, was re-elected by similar margins: 63.3% in Pima County, and 64.09% in Ajo. Elaine Richardson, challenging Beth Ford for the county treasurer's job, was the choice of 50.31% of Ajo's voters, but the county chose Ford with 54.27% of the overall vote.

In Senate District 4, Lynne Pancrazi, a Democrat was unopposed, as were District 4 Democrat House members Juan Carl Escamillo, and Lisa Otondo.

Ajo Unified School District board members Rose Cameron and John Byrnes were unopposed and were re-elected without appearing on the ballot.

The Ajo Lukeville Health Service District had three vacancies on its board and since only three candidates expressed an interest in them, none of the names appeared on the ballot. The new board members are Jan Ducic and Arlene Dreeste, who were re-elected, and Kord Klinefelter. Their terms are for four years. The two remaining members of the board are Dick Ducic and Tom Branson.

In Pima County ballots are still being tabulated with an additional 3421 early ballots counted on Monday. Roughly 4,000 early ballots remain to be counted, including ballots from eligible military and overseas voters. There are also approximately 27,000 provisional ballots to be verified that were issued at polling places on Election Day. It is expected that these votes will affect the still-uncalled race between Democrat Ron Barber and Republican Martha McSally, for the Congressional District #2 seat. As of Monday, Barber was leading by 698 votes.

Automatic recounts are triggered in county races separated by 10 votes. For other races, the recount margin is one-tenth of one percent of the number of votes cast for both candidates.

By statute, Pima County must certify election results by Monday, November 26. The state canvass to certify official election results for federal, statewide, and legislative races is scheduled for December 3 according to Arizona Secretary of State Ken Bennett.

For an election update, visit www.pima.gov/elections/results.htm online.

Nominations still sought for WPCCC seats

Nominations for Western Pima County Community Council representatives of odd-numbered districts – 1, 3, 5, 7, 9, and 11 - will be accepted throughout November, with election taking place at the Thursday, December 6, meeting. All new candidates must be legal residents of the district they seek to represent, be registered voters in Arizona, submit a notarized statement declaring the candidate has not been convicted of a felony or crime involving fraud, and submit a one-page resume listing qualifications.

Qualifications should include education, work experience or any previous community involvement, and a paragraph on the goals envisioned for western Pima County.

Candidates for reelection must submit a form stating their intention to run and a statement declaring that the previous notarized statement is still true. All paperwork must be completed and received by the election committee one week prior to the election.

School's financial aid night to promote higher education

The school is holding a parent/student financial aid night this Thursday, at 5:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria as part of its effort to promote higher education. There will be free pizza and soft drinks on hand for participants and, as a bonus, there will be an astronomy lab.

"Principal Brian MacKenzie and the school improvement staff in Ajo Unified School District have been focused in the past year on increasing the graduation rate in the Ajo High School. They were successful," said Superintendent Dr. Robert Dooley. He says that, according to student success coach Dr. Lauren Carriere, this is not enough.

"We were surprised by the number of students who successfully graduated in the spring of 2012, but have not become involved in a post high school college or vocational training program," Carriere said.

Dooley says the cost factor of enrolling in higher education is very real for some families, and may be a deterrent to further education opportunities. "When students and families are accustomed to a free pre-K through 12th-grade education, it is a shock to face the cost of post high school enrollment and tuition fees," he said.

He praised Carriere for organizing the parent/student financial aid information night.

"While the focus of the financial aid night is for students who are near the completion of their high school career, it is never too early to start planning for successful post high school educational opportunities," said MacKenzie.

"When students are prepared academically to handle college, vocational school, and university rigor, we cannot let financial challenges prevent them from reaching their potential," said Carriere.

In addition to the financial information program, Katy Wilkins, who is part of the school improvement team, will sponsor a "star lab" to give students who are curious about astronomy the opportunity to view various constellations. Wilkins, a member of the Arizona Science Teachers Association, will make a presentation as part of the viewing.

School board to meet this week

The Ajo Unified School District board has its study session meeting Tuesday, November 13, and meets in regular session Wednesday, November 14. Both meetings begin at 5:30 p.m.

Meetings are held in the board meeting room on the AUSD campus. All meetings are open to the public.

Willy is an 8-month-old Siamese-mix male, and he is very affectionate, according to staff, and ready for an affordable adoption. For further information, contact the Pima Animal Care Center at 387-7502.

Connie Skousen

Constance M. (McCallum) Skousen 77, died of cancer on Wednesday, October 31, in Missoula, Montana.

She was born in Mitchell, South Dakota, on May 22, 1935, to Hughland Hudson & Agnese McCallum.

After her graduation from Dakota Wesleyan University, she moved to Missoula where she became a first grade teacher.

She met Stan Skousen on a blind date on March 3, 1956, and they were married on June 6 at University Congregational Church in Missoula.

"Connie left an indelible mark on the world around her as a wife, mother, friend, teacher, artist and activist. Her life's mission was to create beauty and bring peace and love to those close to her as well as to those people and things lost or invisible to the rest of society," said her family.

She & her husband were active members in a number of peace, environmental and social justice organizations. She served as legislative coordinator for the Montana PTA and was subsequently elected state president. She was a member of GASP, the Jeannette Rankin Peace Center, and NAMI. They were also champions of numerous environmental causes and became active lifelong members of the Montana Wilderness Association and Sierra Club. She received numerous awards.

An accomplished watercolor artist, she also enjoyed skiing, tennis, and other outdoor activities.

As winter residents of Ajo, she and her husband joined a tennis group and the Ajo Garden Club. She was an active member of the Desert Artists Guild.

After spending several winters in the area they worked with county officials to apply for a $500,000 highway enhancement grant from the Department of Federal Highways that built the sidewalk with covered rest areas, tables and landscaping with native plants and trees along Highway 85 connecting the "sidewalk to nowhere" to the sidewalks in the older Ajo townsite.

The couple joined the Ajo chapter of the Arizona Archaeological Society and took trips into the Sonoran desert together where they dry camped and enjoyed studying local archaeological sites. On these trips Mrs. Skousen would often spend time painting desert landscapes she found there while her husband kept busy exploring the geology as well as the flora and fauna of the area. She was also active in the Cabeza Prieta Natural History Association.

Mrs. Skousen was preceded in death by her parents; by her brothers, Hudson McCallum and John McCallum; and by her grandson, Joshua Doyle.

She is survived by her husband, Stanley J. Skousen; by their children, Molly Skousen, Jennifer Doyle and Matthew J. Skousen; by her six grandchildren, Kaelyn Doyle, Jadrien Coats, Lhakpa Sherpa, Monica Sherpa, Emma Skousen, Dechen Skousen; and by her great-grandson Deo Scott Doyle.

The family suggests memorial donations be made to an environmental conservation organization of the giver's choice.

Services were held at University Congregational Church in Missoula on November 11.

A world traveler, he visited countries on the European, African, Asian, and Australian continents, often on solo expeditions. He celebrated his 70th birthday with a solo around-the-world trip that ended in Rome where several close friends surprised him with a visit.

He had a varied group of longtime friends who say they treasured his friendship, looked to him as a mentor and role model, and sought his counsel and wise advice throughout the important stages of their lives.

Ajo residents and organizations came ready to work, play, and learn, at the community cleanup at the cemetery last Wednesday. Local Girl Scouts, a Boy Scout and Cub Scout, and GED students were joined by veterans, parents, and other volunteers in removing debris and tidying decorations throughout the grounds. Pima County brought a dump truck that was filled to the brim at day's end, according to participants. Along with the work, it was a learning experience about familial obligations for all, noted Ajo Cemetery Association director Debbie Morrow. She added that Ana Lopez asked if the cleanup could be made a regular event so the whole town could join in.

Two from Organ Pipe win awards

Six National Park Service professionals have won the Intermountain Region's annual Natural Resource Stewardship Awards for 2012. Two of the six — Lee Baiza and Tim Tibbitts — are from Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument.

The awards recognize outstanding contributions to the care, protection, and appreciation of natural landscapes and wildlife in six categories: Resource management, research stewardship, maintenance stewardship, small park resource management, and the year's top resource professional and park superintendent.

"In their everyday duties, these six colleagues give us daily lessons in how to accomplish better a key element of our National Park Service mission: The protection and preservation of park resources," Intermountain Region Director John Wessels said. "With diligence and creativity, they represent the best of Park Service efforts to safeguard some of the most precious qualities and natural features of our national park landscapes."

As regional winners, the six are eligible for the national 2012 Director's Awards for Natural Resources.

The Director's Award for Natural Resource Professional went to Tim Tibbitts, wildlife biologist at Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument.

It was noted that "Tibbitts' achievements in the challenging borderlands environment include leading NPS recovery efforts for the endangered Sonoran pronghorn and managing the Quitobaquito Spring water system and its endangered, ecosystem-dependent pupfish and mud turtles. He also oversees management of numerous abandoned mining sites. In dynamic and constantly changing border conditions, Tibbitts has collaborated with federal, state, and Mexican government agencies on these issues as well as safety concerns over feral burros and park trespass by private livestock. In every case, he engages others with a great attitude, determination, and humor."

The Director's Award for Superintendent of the Year for Natural Resource Stewardship went to Lee Baiza, superintendent at Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument.

They noted, "Baiza has led the monument through large and complex initiatives of the Department of Homeland Security, including a pedestrian border fence, high-tech surveillance towers, tactical infrastructure maintenance and repair, fiber-optic cable installation, and construction of a Border Patrol base inside the park's sensitive Sonoran Desert environs. He has worked tirelessly to lead ORPI through dramatic changes that almost halted resource management at first because of staff and visitor safety needs. Under Baiza, the monument was one of the first NPS units to use Operational Leadership routinely in every park division. He successfully sought focused interagency research to measure what heavy border-related activity does to ORPI's fragile resources. Baiza's advocacy helped bring about new policies to allow safe conservation work in the demanding border environment. The park has begun new research, resumed stalled programs, and anticipates important, large-scale ecological restoration of areas damaged by border activity."

Basics of veggie gardening

While the vast majority of the UA master gardening training course involves landscape issues and efficient use of water, about a half-day is devoted to vegetable gardening. Recognizing that growing veggies locally is fast becoming a movement across the country, I took a refresher class on the subject last month.

The class was divided into 10 steps for a successful garden.

First, select a location with full morning sun and some afternoon shade, if possible. A water source should be nearby.

Second, decide on a layout and build it. Options include traditional ground-level rows with pathways, raised beds, container gardening, or a mix. Avoid planting taller plants where they will shade short ones.

Grow local varieties with a quick maturity, such as 45 days.

Use fresh seeds, transplants free of aphids, and organic fertilizers such as alfalfa pellets.

Organic matter may be tilled into the top foot of soil. Don't use peat moss, lime, or ashes.

Seeds should be spaced in rows at 1/4" to 2" depth. Set transplants in evening at grade (only tomatoes are planted deep).

Irrigate the upper 12 to 24 inches of soil as plants mature.

Use mulch to control weeds; pick early the ones that come up.

Build fences, rotate crops, learn about insects and diseases.

Harvest while tender, and often. Repeated harvesting encourages more veggies to set.

Letter to the editor

Only one dog

Editor:

Last week's article about the WPCCC meeting finds me looking for a missing dog. It says that I spoke about my "dogs" and some of the reasons for their barking. I would like to correct this error immediately because as far as I know, my Beanie is an only child, and I should know this. I don't want everyone in town thinking I just let my non-existent other dog run around unsupervised or bark all night long. Next thing you know, I'll be getting a fine for not having it licensed. I have enough sleep deprivation as it is, what with the increasingly eerie ballyhoo from the coyotes these days. Are more people raising chickens and are the coyotes hanging around at night waiting for one to fly the coop? Speaking of birds, those hummingbirds are starting to get on my nerves.

Cute as they are, their infernal wing buzzing and dive bombing me when I wear a red shirt is becoming annoying. Not only that, the little yellow things keep falling out of the hummingbird feeder. And speaking of annoying, the garbage truck has got to go. It heaves and hunkers around the alley beside my cottage twice a week at 7 AM and makes Beanie bark in my ear. By the time I get up to go out and shoo it away, it's gone.

Er, Er. .Er, Er!!

He taught previously in Baltimore City from 2010 to 2012, in Baltimore County from 2007 to 2010, and in the Division of Bulacan, Philippines, from 1996 to 2007.

"Teaching is a career that will impact the future," he said. "It is ever-changing and ever-challenging, but most importantly, I want to change the lives of children."

Regarding the move to Ajo, Gabriel said his new home is a place to slow down and enjoy life. He said it is a small town but the people here have a big heart for culture and love.

In his spare time he enjoys target shooting and anything related to technology.

He is married to Josephine S. Gabriel. Their children are Carl Jobert S., 11, and Elisha Mae S., 6.

Correction

There were several typographical and layout errors in the last issue of the Ajo Copper News. There was one mistake that needs clarification.

In an article about the bridge over the Gibson Arroyo at Second Avenue, Tina West was mentioned as noting the county flood control had said that "...even if the bank were artificially contained, the arroyo would still now be large enough to continue an 'unusual flow even.'"

What West actually said was that "Pima County Flood Control District has said even if the banks were artificially contained, the arroyo would still not be large enough to contain an "unusual flow event."

Renalou Albano is new to Ajo Unified School District this year. She is the ELL teacher for grades 1 to 3.

Albano has a master of arts degree in early childhood education and a bachelor of arts in elementary education. She has previously been a Montessori teacher for 3- to 6-year-olds and has taught pre-kindergarten and first grade.

She says her goal as a teacher here is to have a positive impact in the future generations.

"Life in Ajo is very simple, though the culture is very diverse," she said. "I like the different cultures. I wish to learn more about them."

Along with spending time with her husband Archie Albano, her interests include reading, dancing, and cooking.

Statues in the park

Statues of people on horses have a special meaning. If the horse has both front legs in the air, the person died in battle. If the horse has one front leg in the air, the person died as a result of wounds received in battle. If the horse has all four legs on the ground, the person died of natural causes.

Clark Lohr to speak at library

The first speaker in this season's Friends of the Ajo Library's author series will be Clark Lohr on Saturday, November 17, at 1 p.m. at the Ajo public library.

Lohr, author of Devil's Kitchen, said he wrote the book "... because creative writing was the life task I'd set for myself at age twenty."

The idea for a novel came from reading about a gruesome murder discovered in the Tucson landfill, a story he never forgot. When he signed up for a novel writing class at the YMCA in Scottsdale, his instructor told the class to have the first two chapters and an outline written by the next class meeting - two weeks away. He started writing at that time and researched the story behind the murder at the landfill and did his first draft of the novel during a period of unemployment.

The story is about a sheriff, his girlfriend, and a private investigator who deal with institutional corruption and powerful criminals, and how they solve a gruesome crime discovered in a Tucson landfill.

Part of the setting for the novel is in Skeleton Canyon in extreme southeastern Arizona. The metal sign that says Skeleton Canyon is used on the cover of Devil's Kitchen.

Before writing his first novel, Lohr attended Arcadia High School in Scottsdale, was active in drama, served in the U.S. Army during the Vietnam War, attended Phoenix College, and got a bachelor's degree in literature and writing from the University of Arizona.

Further information about the writer and his work can be found at <http://clarklohr.com> online.

Forrest Burkenbine, better known as Forrie, has been selected as the local Sheriff's Auxiliary Volunteer of the Quarter for the fourth quarter of 2012.

Burkenbine has been an SAV for 10 years and is patrol-certified. He is a recipient of the Dean Sullen Memorial Award for his contributions to the growth and development of the SAV program, and his overall performance of duties has been outstanding during his time of service, noted local SAV director Tom Schnell.

A crime prevention manager, Burkenbine oversees the SAV video ID programs for home and business along with Neighborhood Watch and Home Security programs.

Architect discussed project color picks

It's safe to say the colors haven't gone unnoticed, jarring some but not bothering others.

In a recent article for an internal US Customs & Border Protection newsletter, Tucson architect Richard Fe Tom, lead architect for the 55 Saguaro housing project, wrote about the design process and color selection.

Tom wrote that a "team of five architects were able to achieve amazing results and consensus with design solutions, color, site planning, and changes to the original prototype design." The team included architects from the General Services Administration and US C&BP, as well as Tom and his daughter, architect Kegan Tom. "Together," Tom wrote, "this team worked to achieve the best solutions from a budget, schedule, design, maintenance, and community standpoint throughout the design and construction process."

Tom said that emphasis was placed on fitting in through the use of colors influenced by the Mexican culture.

"The use of vibrant colors is very important to traditional southwestern Mexican villages. Because the Town of Ajo has such strong historic ties to the Mexican community, a drive through the neighborhood is highlighted with bright colors. Hues of blue, pink, green (created) a local design motif," he said in the article.

Robin Coachman, project manager with the US Department of Homeland Security, was also a part of that team, and provided the article for input.

"The project is moving along faster than we expected," he said. "Sundt is doing a hell of a job. We anticipated it would be completed by the end of January, but it looks like it will be done the end of December."

Ajo Community Golf Course GOLF

By Colleen King

What great weather to come out and enjoy our lovely course.

Monday Skins had 9 players with just 2 skins — Bill Conley on # 1 and Ted Acker on # 7. The players all met at the Club House Lounge after for a little camaraderie and extra hot salsa and chips to spice up their evening.

Men's League on Tuesday morning had a total of 17 players. First place was taken by Tony McGarry with a 67, and Moe Landry came a close second with 68. Not to be left in the dust, Bill Conley made third with net 69. Ray Fober made the only chip-in of #3.

Wednesday Couples had five groups of us at the club ready to tee off. First prize went to Linda & Tony McGarry with a net 30.2, second came Harley & Elaine Murray with 30.4, and third was taken by Bill & Colleen King with 31.2.

Well, Friday night pro-Am started the tee off with 25 players — great turn out! First place was won by Dick Gates' team of Earnie Ochoa, Norma Steckel, and Gerry Holm with a -3, and second was Bill King's team of Jesus Luna, Tony McGarry, and Bea Trueba sporting a -1.

Welcome to the newly elected board of directors, Dolf Ulyeman, Mike Zorzya, Patti Taylor, Brian English and Greg Burton (who was re-elected for another term). The previous members, Bud Turner and Bill Doramus did a great job and will be standing by as club members to help the new board in any way they can.

The volunteers are doing a super job of keeping our course in prime shape, and all the hard work is greatly appreciated by all of us. Gee, guys, what would we do if you hadn't stepped up to the plate?

We are having our annual Turkey Shoot Scramble on Saturday, November 17, starting at 9 a.m. Come and join us and win your Thanksgiving turkey, and have loads of fun doing it!

We are expanding our hours in the clubhouse. We will be open 7 days a week from 7 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Come on out and join the fun. If you golf, wonderful; if not, we have golfers that will take you under their wings (or in this case clubs) and help you learn the game!
